SELECTING ISSUES OF CONCERN TO YOUR COMMUNITY

A. Identifying the Issues of Concern to Your Community. (You may want to use the worksheet as you develop your plans.)

Ask yourselves what public concerns are of the most interest to your community.

- What issues do people in your community make time for—by attending meetings, by volunteering, by taking action, by writing letters to the editor of your local paper?
- What issues are of special concern to groups in the community?
- What issues would interest and involve new members?
- Ask others to help you identify the pressing issues.
- Invite representatives from a variety of interest groups to a meeting to discuss the pressing issues facing your community. Include people with a range of viewpoints, people who don't talk with each other on a regular basis. Find out what they (or others) are doing to address these problems and what aspects of the problems need more attention.
- Invite government officials and administrative staff to meet with you to share their thoughts about the critical issues facing the community, plans that are under way to address these problems, and any potential role for the League to play in bringing the community together to help resolve the problems.
- Invite several people from one of the community organizations to talk with you about issues that concern them. Ask what they are doing—or what they think should be done—to address these problems and how your League might work with them on a solution.
- Attend meetings of one or more other community organizations to learn what issues are on their agenda and to see whether there are opportunities for collaboration with your League.

Examining a key local issue as it affects your community.

- Convene a focus group of citizens representative of your community to discuss one of the top issues that you have from the questions above. Explore with the group how the issue affects your community and ways in which to work on the issue. Use the results of this discussion to help your League address the issue in a way that is relevant to your community. Invite those who participated in the meeting to form a community team to work with the League to resolve the problems identified.
- Meet with representatives of community groups that are working in areas related to this top issue to learn how they define the problem and what they are doing to address it. Explore with them ways in which your League might contribute to resolving the problem.

B. Determining Your League's Role in Addressing the Pressing Issue(s).

Leagues have a range of options available to them in deciding how best to address an issue of public concern. Each approach—community collaboration, citizen education or action, or study—can be a valid and effective means of pursuing the League's mission. The set of circumstances surrounding each issue—complexity of the subject, timeframe for action, needs of the community, goals of your League, resources available—helps determine the most appropriate method to use in working on that issue.

Consider the following roles for your League when deciding how to respond to emerging issues throughout the year:

- Community Collaboration. Does the community need a neutral facilitator to help all interested parties come together to define the problem and develop a solution for the mutual benefit of all? Would serving as a facilitator enable your League to be involved in resolving a critical community issue on which it has no position? Would the facilitator option give your League an effective vehicle for working with and including diverse segments of the community in setting public policy?
- Citizen Education. Does the community need objective information on the issue? Would a citizen education campaign on the issue be the best means of attracting new members, collaborating with diverse interest groups and helping the community resolve the issue?
- Study. Would the community benefit from a League position on the issue? Is there time to do a study? Will doing a study of the issue be the best way to attract new members, reach out to the community, work with other groups and interested individuals and take part in resolving the issue for the common good?
- Action. Does your League have a position on the issue? Will advocating your position be the most effective means of helping your community resolve this problem for the mutual benefit of all? Are your members committed to helping ensure the success of an action campaign? Will an action campaign be the best way to attract new members and help engage others in shaping a better community?

C. Working on Issues of Concern to Your Community.

To engage both members and other citizens in playing a more active role in addressing public concerns, Leagues must provide opportunities to have a real impact on a problem. And to respond effectively to the challenges facing our communities, Leagues must ensure that all interest groups have a chance to participate in the problem-solving process.

Sponsor projects and activities that give members and citizens direct experience with a program item on the League's agenda.

- Your League can play a key role in helping your community address a divisive issue by bringing all the stakeholders together to define and resolve the problem. With your reputation for fairness and your time-tested consensus-building skills, your League can ensure that all viewpoints are heard and that the solution that emerges best serves the common good.

- Incorporate a direct action project in your work. Sponsor an event that will highlight the issue you are focusing on. For example: if there is a concern about proper school facilities, organize a tour of the schools.
- Convene a task force of representatives of the various groups affected by a problem to forge a community consensus on a solution.

Try activities and events that others have used with success in your community.

- Talk with people from groups you would like to work closely with to see what kinds of events, times and locations appeal to them. Make a note of activities and projects that generate interest and involvement in your community. Look for ways to weave these kinds of events into your work on an issue.

Seek opportunities to collaborate with other groups in the community.

- Look for opportunities for joint sponsorship of events and projects. Co-sponsorship allows your League to work with groups whose members have demonstrated an interest in community involvement, helps you network with more diverse organizations and enables your League to increase its impact without increasing dramatically the amount of work required of League members.

Offer a regular program of social-educational events to your members and the public.

- Establish a regular (monthly, bimonthly, quarterly) “Hot Topics” luncheon, dinner or Saturday brunch program at various restaurants in town featuring League and/or non-League speakers on issues of concern to your community. Pick topics of special interest to groups you would like to involve with the League.

SELECTING ISSUES OF CONCERN TO OUR COMMUNITY

A Planning Worksheet for League Leaders

1. Name four issues of concern to our community—issues that people consider to be truly vital to the public interest and that affect them directly. Consider:

- Who is concerned about this problem?
- What evidence do we have that this is an issue of concern?
- Is there a real possibility that citizens could bring about positive change?

2. Pick one of these issues to be a focus for our League. Consider:

- Is this an issue of concern to a group we would like to engage with the League?
- Does our League have a particular expertise in this area?
- Is there a special role for our League to play in helping our community resolve this issue?
- Would people want to join our League to be involved in working on this issue?

The issue we have chosen (from #1) is

3. In addressing this issue our goal is to

4. Name five interest groups in our community who are concerned about this issue—and why.

5. For each interest group identified in #4 answer the following questions:

- What are at least three aspects of League that would be appealing to prospective members? What needs of theirs might LWV meet?
- What would be necessary to sustain their long-term interests in LWV?
- What would be the first LWV event you invite each to attend? Why?

- How should each prospective member be cultivated and for how long to make sure their response to the "ask" is YES?
- How would your League prepare members of the interest group for assuming a League leadership role?

6. List five different ways in which our League can work on this issue. Consider:

- What types of activities attract citizen participation in our community?
- What approach would appeal to groups we want to engage in this effort?
- Is there a hands-on project that would give people a tangible way to get involved in this issue?
- What groups are already involved with this issue, and how might we collaborate with them?

7. The approach we choose (from #6) is

8. The first five things we will do to start working on this issue are:

CALENDAR PLANNING

The leadership team drafts the calendar at a special planning meeting. At the planning meeting, board members:

- Determine their community focus goals for the League for the year.
- Decide on the strategies that will help them realize those goals.
- Agree on a set of activities and events to carry out those strategies.
- Decide what jobs will be required and assign them to leadership team members or off-team members.
- Develop a calendar that reflects the team's planning.

The annual calendar usually contains dates for events of general interest to all members such as the following:

ELECTION ACTIVITIES CHECKLIST

LWV is well known for its election-related work and activities. We serve our communities well, and the public depends upon the services that we provide.

There is a “Candidates Night Checklist” and a series of questions for Leagues to consider as they conduct other important voter service activities. It is a reminder that election season should not only be a time to make a difference in our communities but to make a difference in the League as well.

These suggestions are meant to complement the work that Leagues are already doing. The list is not comprehensive, nor is it expected that Leagues would be able to affirmatively answer every question.

Election season is a period of natural visibility for the League, and a time to maximize that opportunity.

Please note that additional election resources are available on www.lwv.org. These include a memo on election activities and growing the League, an FAQ about using education fund resources, public service announcements, “widgets” for www.vote411.org, and tips on conducting debates.

Voters’ Guides

- Does your League follow up with individuals who request copies of the Voters’ Guide?
- Have you done consistent (and persistent!) media outreach to promote the Voters’ Guide?
- Does the Voters’ Guide include an ad to join the League? Does it have the League’s contact information? (Note: This ad must be paid for with operating fund or (c)(4) resources.)
- Are there allied groups that could help to promote your Voters’ Guides?

Overall election season

- Have you worked with the media to draw attention to election issues beyond the “horserace” (e.g., voter information on www.vote411.org or www.smartvoter.org, voter ID issues, provisional ballots) and what League members are doing to address these issues?
- As more and more individuals come to your League’s Web site for information about the election, do you have a prominent “join us” message?
- What are the visibility opportunities around your League’s Election Day activities (e.g., staffing a voter hotline or serving as election monitors)? For example, are volunteers wearing League buttons or stickers? Are they ready to talk about the League and/or provide contact information?

HOT TOPICS LUNCHEON

Every community has topics of interest that are unique and important to its citizens. What are the challenges that face your community today? What is the hot button issue that everyone is talking about at local government meetings? Consider using the “Hot Topics” Lunch as a venue to discuss these timely issues, while also bringing a spotlight to the League and its work.

When done with an intentional focus on organizational growth, Leagues have found these events to be an extremely successful way to visible and engaged in your community.

Getting Started

- Step One: Enlist a small committee of two or three to draw up a plan for three to four months. The committee should decide upon the topics to be covered as well as what speakers would be appropriate. Consider “controversial” speakers or subjects that may be outside of the “usual” League interests. Customize the program to fit your League’s needs and to utilize your League’s “connections” to secure speakers. (Panels tend get higher attendance than single speakers, but the right individual speaker can draw a great crowd.)
- Step Two: Secure a venue for a luncheon that you will be able to use regularly. A private dining room is a plus to ensure that your guest speakers will not be interrupted. Also consider audiovisual capability; that will be important as you grow! Negotiate a set price for food and beverage for your guests; remind the restaurant that you will be giving them repeat business and attracting the community’s “movers and shakers” (i.e., people who are good prospects for future business). Make sure that the cost of admission covers the cost of the meal, and some Leagues add on an additional amount to help offset the League’s operating expenses.
- Step Three: It is imperative that you market your lunch programs consistently and frequently. Attendance will grow, but it will depend on very consistent reminders.

Some proven marketing strategies from Leagues in Florida include:

- ✓ Put Hot Topics speakers on the cover of your League’s newsletter with their photograph and a brief biography.
- ✓ Send out a bright colored postcard with essential information and a “catchy” title. Be sure to include the location, price, and how to RSVP. The use of post cards will make the invite stand out among other mail as well as cut down on your postage costs!

- ✓ Use your email database to send out a series of reminders before every luncheon. Be sure to include the RSVP contact, as well as all relevant information.
- ✓ Encourage members to invite their friends, family, and neighbors to these events! This is the perfect venue to bring friends who might be interested in joining the League. A personal invitation to attend – and hopefully join – will produce results.

Additional Tips and information:

- Time: Plan on a minimum of 90 minutes from beginning to end. Arrive early, and remember to bring your banner, membership forms, past newsletters, and a reservation list!
- Welcome Guests: Warmly welcome guests to this event and invite non-members to join. Have speakers and other nonmembers introduce themselves briefly prior to the speaking portion of the event.
- Designate membership ambassadors: Have two of your most outgoing and welcoming members in charge of welcoming, handing out literature, and making sure new attendees are welcomed and seated with others. Make sure your membership ambassadors are comfortable asking people to join during conversations with prospective new members!
- Keep it fun: Make it an interesting and informative event for members and guests to network and socialize while showing them the value of the League.

In identifying speakers, consider local professors, reporters/columnists, agency heads, law enforcement, legislators, lobbyists, elected or appointed school officials, hospital and college administrators, local activists or organizers, and authors. Utilize connections among League members to help secure speakers.

OBSERVER CORPS

EASY START GUIDE:

An observer is an individual who attends a governmental meeting, makes notes on what happens at that meeting and reports back to the League.

Steps for observing:

1. If the agency or board has a website, check it out for meeting schedules, agendas, and information about the members you will be observing. Try to get a copy of the agenda before the meeting.
2. Arrive at the meeting a little early and introduce yourself to the participants and the media if they're there. Assure the members that you are not there because something is wrong but to learn what is happening. Wear an LWV pin and bring something for taking notes
3. Remember that as an observer you're letting elected and appointed officials know that someone is watching what decisions are being made, and how they are being made. You don't have to be an expert on the state's open meeting requirements or take people to task for not being "open" but those actions should be part of your report.
4. Monitor both the issues being discussed as well as the process. Not everything will relate to a current League position, but will be of interest to the community.
5. Do not speak on the issues, either for yourself or, unless authorized to do so, on behalf of the League.
6. Prepare a short report for your League to use.

League use of an observer corps:

1. Observers can alert the League to issues in the community the League might want to study or develop a community forum about. (The Leadership Team might want to prioritize which meetings should be covered and send observers to certain local meetings where actions of interest are most likely to be happening.)
2. Observer reports can appear in the newsletter, be posted on the League website and can also be shared with non-LWV members.
3. For a specific, limited task to engage members, taking on going to the meetings of one community agency is both predictable and can be shared with someone else. Even if there are only a few local agencies or governmental bodies that can be covered, the program will benefit the League and the volunteers doing it.
4. If the meetings are televised, an observer could watch at home, submit a report about it and keep the League informed. This approach lacks the visibility of someone attending the meeting, but still helps to identify community issues.

5. Share the results of your observing with the public officials being observed.

Recruiting:

1. Ask members to participate and share the value of participating.
2. Create a template form they can use to do their reports.
Who was there? How was the meeting conducted? What issues were discussed?

What actions were taken?

3. Recognize the observers for their “sunshine” contribution. The third week in March is usually “Sunshine Week” focusing on open meetings and public access to government documents. The League has been a champion of openness in government and has supported efforts to expand open government requirements, local observers take these rules into action.
4. Have a meeting where observers can share their experiences and new observers can be recruited.

A more detailed publication on Observer Corps “Observing Your Government in Action” is available from the LWVUS website, www.lwv.org.

APPENDIX I

KEY POINTS FOR A LEAGUE STUDY

It is important to remember that the study process is a cooperative effort between the local League Leadership Team and the study committee. It is the Leadership Team's responsibility to monitor the entire process to ensure that the membership is able to come to consensus in an unbiased and nonpartisan atmosphere.

The key points of the study process are:

- Members chose an issue to study at the Program Planning meeting. Optimally, the members at the meeting should write the Focus of the study and the Scope: details of what will be studied.
- The League Leadership Team chooses the recommended program items for the annual meeting. If the Focus and Scope have not already been written then they should write it for the annual business meeting presentation.
- The members adopt the local study at the annual business meeting.
- The Leadership Team finds a local study chairperson.
- The Leadership Team and the local study chairperson recruit members for the study committee and set the date for consensus meeting. The Leadership Team decides if the study committee can recruit from outside the current membership.
- The local study chairperson with the study committee sets up the timeline, organizes and gathers research information, shares issue information with the members, maintains an unbiased approach to the study, and prepares for the consensus meeting presentation.
- Members learn about the issue from the study committee through articles in bulletin or on website, information forums, tours, etc. before the consensus meeting.
- The study committee writes the consensus questions and the Leadership Team approves the questions that are sent to the members at least two weeks before the consensus meeting.

APPENDIX J

TAKING ACTION CHECKLIST

A local League contemplating action on a community issue should consider the following:

- Does the League have a position that supports the proposed action?
- Do members understand and would they agree with the proposed action?
- Is it a priority for the League?
- Does the League have a unique role to play or would the League's assets (time and money) be better spent on other activities?
- Does it have some chance of success or make an important statement for the League?
- Are other organizations or a coalition already working on the issue?
- What action techniques would be most effective?
- How will the League deal with controversy?
- How can members be involved in the proposed action?
- What kind of community involvement would best support the League's efforts?

There are a variety of methods for taking action: email "calls to action" to members; letters to the editor; direct contact with a local government official; issue campaigns, to name a few.

League members should be encouraged as individuals to contact their local government officials regarding League priority issues. Members, of course, are always free to take action on any topic, as long as it is clear that they are speaking as individuals, not for the League (e.g. they should not mention that they are League members in their communications). It is important to remember that only the League spokesperson (or designee) speaks in the name of the League.

APPENDIX K

MEDIA HOOKS TO RAISE VISIBILITY

Year round visibility is a key component of successful Leagues. “Visibility” does not necessarily mean a big event; it simply is promoting the work and mission of the League, including issuing a news release, or a letter to the editor or op-ed.

Below is a list of potential “media hooks” adapted from the LWV national calendar (available on www.lwv.org). These are nationally recognized dates and anniversaries that offer local Leagues opportunities to be visible in the community. They are an “excuse” to engage local media to help build stronger relationships.

LWVUS uses these same milestones to issue statements to the media, and often a template for local Leagues to customize is also available. These templates, which are updated annually, are distributed via the weekly Leaders’ Update and posted on www.lwv.org.

Marking these anniversaries or milestones – by issuing a media statement or in some other way – helps to ensure that the League is in the public’s eye consistently.

Anniversaries and milestones for media hooks:

- January: Start of new legislative session; Inauguration/State of Union Address
- February: Youth Voter Month; 14th – League birthday
- March: Women’s History Month; 8th – International Women’s Day; 15th-21st – Sunshine Week
- April: 15th – Tax Day (“Check the Box” for public financing) 19th-25th – National Volunteer Week; 22nd – Earth Day
- May: 1st – Law Day; 10th – Mother’s Day
- June: After Annual Meetings (local, state, and national) – announce outcomes, e.g. program and leadership
- July: 4th – Freedom of Information Act anniversary
- August: 26th – Women’s Equality Day
- September: Voter Registration Month; 17th – Constitution Day
- October: Voter Education Month; 24th – United Nations Day
- November: Election Day
- December: 15th – Bill of Rights Day

There are sample letters to the editor and press release templates online at www.lwv.org.

APPENDIX N

LEADERSHIP TEAM MEETING BASICS

Face-to-face, by conference call, by video call

Leadership Team meetings are the means to optimize collective and collaborative decision-making to plan, direct, and evaluate the work of the League as directed by the grassroots membership. Full team member participation garners a plethora of ideas and divides up the work. In streamlining local team meetings, the following “best practices” (a menu of options) lead to efficient, effective decision-making.

- Team meets on a regular schedule (quarterly, bi-monthly) and often enough to address any crisis situation that may emerge. Meetings often include a fun or social element before or after the meeting or even a working meal.
- Team meets same day/timeframe/location. Irregularly held meetings (whenever, wherever) discourage attendance.
- Agenda (with time estimates and decisions needed), previous meeting minutes, financial and committee reports (with recommendations and background) should be distributed by email or snail mail or posted on web site prior to meeting. An agenda allots time logically and helps board members prepare for board meetings. Sample agenda items include: announcements; previous minutes; Money person’s report; spokesperson’s report; team member reports, including recommendations. Mix the agenda to rotate topics and presenters. Allow more time for discussion about needed decisions and schedule these items earliest.
- Team members understand roles, come prepared and contribute to accomplish planned business. “No shows” and unprepared attendees guarantee longer meetings that often end without concluding the business. An absent team member may have just the piece of information needed to help others make an important decision.
- Team meetings begin and end on time with the full complement of team members. Punctual team members dread meetings that start late and go beyond allotted time and soon become “no shows.”
- Team members report clearly to the team without replicating previously distributed information and answer questions about reports and recommendations. Impromptu reports not requiring team decisions, or without consideration of team decisions, prolong the meeting but could be included in the next meeting agenda. Hint: reports can double as newsletter/web site) articles.
- Collective decisions (an essential element of team meetings) are based on orderly, business-like (parliamentary) discussion. Inattentiveness and “side” conversations hinder a board from being productive.

- Spokesperson/Convener keeps discussion focused and sticks to the agenda. Irrelevant issues keep team from meeting goals. The team may employ a “Parking Lot” to capture non-agenda items thereby tracking a potentially great idea. (Parking lot is a term for recording unrelated business on a white board or a sheet of paper for use in crafting future agendas.)
- Spokesperson/Convener summarizes discussions/votes/recommended actions before moving to the next agenda item.
- Team postpones decision-making when information is inadequate
- Minutes, including a list of attending and absent team members, are taken to provide a record for future reference for future teams.

SAMPLE STREAMLINED LEAGUE NONPARTISAN POLICY

The League of Women Voters of _____ may take action on governmental measures and policies, but it shall not support or oppose any political party or any candidate.

No Leadership Team member shall run for or hold elective office. If a Leadership Team member declares for an elective office, the member should resign from the Leadership Team. Leadership Team members shall not undertake any action that will cause them to be identified publicly as supporting any candidate for office or any political party. The Leadership Team members shall not participate in any political campaign in any way.

A Leadership Team member may serve on any public board, commission, committee, or coalition; however, that Leadership Team member does not represent the League unless officially designated as a League representative by the League Leadership Team.

APPENDIX T

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

ROLE OF THE LEADERSHIP TEAM

The Leadership Team is self-sustaining and should be always looking for potential leaders to engage in the League's work. The Leadership Team's plan for bringing on new leaders should include options such as:

- Having at least two team people assigned to each job for mentoring purposes – one experienced person and one less experienced person. This process ensures that there will always be someone ready to step in, in an emergency or on future Leadership Teams.
- Offer training opportunities for new and less experienced team and committee members.
- Filling additional team and committee slots with inexperienced and new members as there is no better place than the team to learn about the League and how to lead
- Holding 5-minute training sessions at each Leadership Team meeting to demystify terminology, purposes, and processes as needs arise.

We are all volunteers and we want to feel that our valuable time is being well spent. We should communicate what the value of the League is to possible leaders and their community. We need to recognize that times have changed and new leaders are looking for specific opportunities.

What are some of these specific opportunities?

- A chance to lead
- A chance to make a difference in their communities
- Respect for their personal life and how it integrates with their volunteer time
- Knowledge and Skill development
- Flexible scheduling
- Building solid relationships and friendships

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT REMINDERS:

Leadership Teams should have a deliberate, structured, and proactive plan in place for developing a constant pool of qualified, trained, and willing volunteers. To carry out this important leadership development role, the Leadership Team does the following:

- Grows leaders
 - Considers new members for the Leadership Team
 - Appoints new members to committees/ Observer Corps
- Cultivates leaders
 - Provides multiple training/orientation opportunities
 - Sends new members to statewide and national meetings
- Mentors Leaders
 - Pair members up with more experienced members
 - Builds in redundancy for every job
- Fast tracks Leaders
 - Recruits members with non-League skills
 - Teaches them League skills

In today's busy world, as never before, League Leadership Teams are responsible for replacing themselves.

All League leaders should be looking over their shoulders to make sure that someone is following them.
